

ROY LICHTENSTEIN

For our next project, we will be learning about Roy Lichtenstein and the Pop Art movement. Roy Lichtenstein used lines, dots, black outlines, and primary colors to create a comic book look in his paintings. The dots that he used were called BENDAY DOTS, mimicking the styles of printers.

When you are doing this sketchbook assignment, choose your image wisely - you could use the design in your main project!

1. FIND A ROY LICHTENSTEIN artwork on GOOGLE and sketch it out in your sketchbook using the ENTIRE page
 - a. Once you have it drawn out entirely, use colored pencils (on the front table) to fill in your design using at least 3 designs and 3 of the colors shown below
 - i. If you would prefer your line drawings and designs to be outlined in SHARPIE, you can, but it is your choice for this assignment
 - b. The entire page should be drawn neatly, and colored in entirely to resemble an artwork from a comic book.
 - i. This assignment will be worth 50 points
